

Tanja Pommerening

Medical reenactments: Emic and etic perspectives

By reprocessing ancient Egyptian medicines, one obtains a wide range of information that can help us advance scientifically in various fields. The lecture will show by means of examples which results on the lexicographic, medical-historical, pharmaceutical-technological and pharmacological level can be derived from such experiments.